Why is it important to think about our learning?

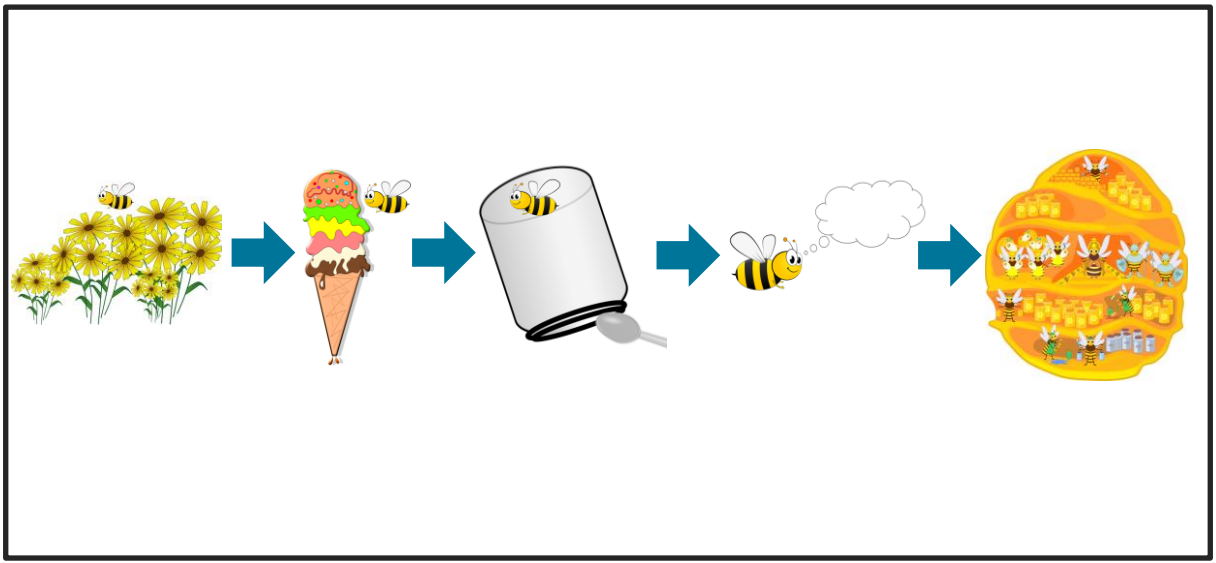

This is Bertie the Bee.

Wow, look how busy it is in the beehive!

A day in the life of Bertie the Bee

What clever thinking will Bertie have to do today?

Look at all those flowers!
Poor Bertie must collect the nectar from all of them.

Perseverance

- Sticking with a tricky problem.
- Following a job through to the end.

Oh dear, poor Bertie has seen an ice cream dropped on the floor by a human.

Bertie loves ice cream, but he still has a job to do collecting all the nectar from the flowers.

What should he do?

Managing Impulsivity

- Taking time to consider the right thing to do.
- Thinking before speaking or acting.
- Remaining calm when you might get annoyed or angry.
- Staying focused.

Oh dear, poor Bertie has got trapped in an old jam jar. He flew in to taste the jam left on the bottom.

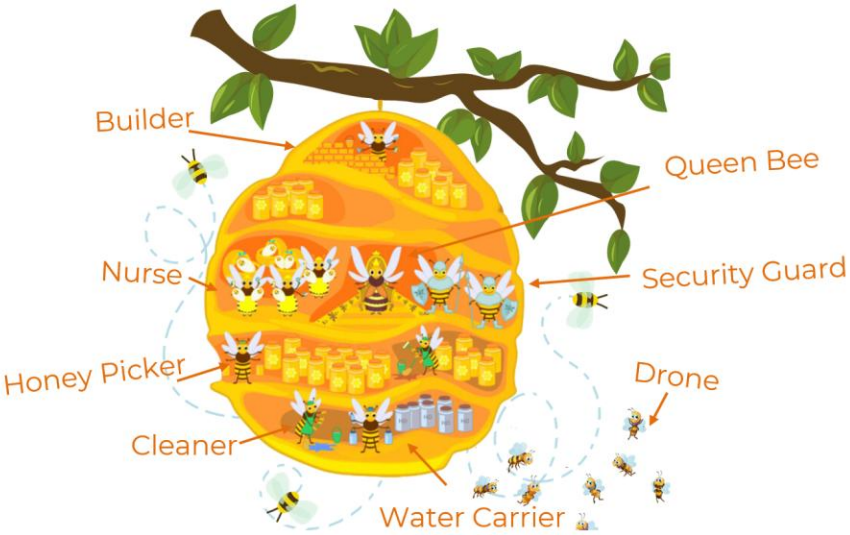

How can he escape from this?

He will have to be creative.

Creating, Imagining, Innovating

- Think about how a problem might be solved in an interesting way.
- Invent a new way to do something.

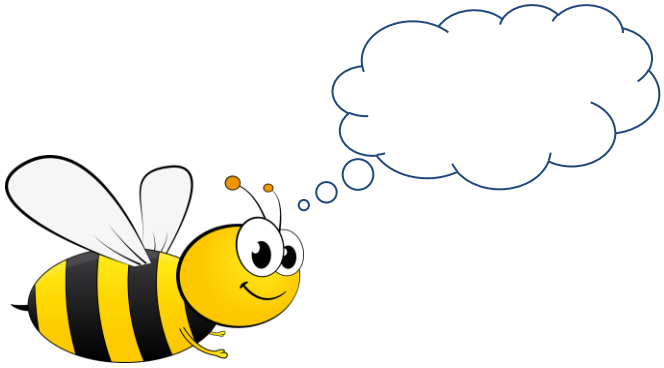

This is where Bertie lives.
It's a very busy hive – can you see how each bee has a job to make sure the hive is successful?
They are all working together.

Thinking Interdependently

- Being happy to work with others and welcome their ideas.
- Solving problems as a team.

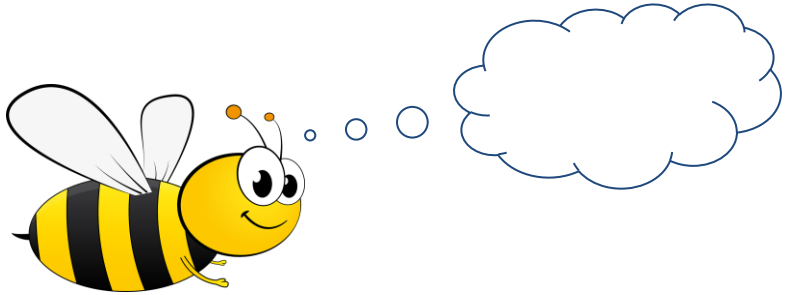

What a busy day Bertie has had!
As he flies home, he thinks about all that has happened and whether he made the best choices.
Maybe tomorrow he will do things a little differently.

Thinking about your Thinking

(Metacognition)

- Being aware of own thoughts and feelings.
- Think back about what you did and how you did it.
